ARRANGING FOR A MONSTER DEMONSTRATION AT LAKE MARANACOOK.

THY TELEGRAPH TO THE TRIBUNE.1

AUGUSTA, Me., June 22.—The Republican State Committee is industriously at work aiding in the formation of Blaine and Logan clubs, which it is the design to have organized in every town in the State. The committee has decided to make a vigorous canvass, and is making all the necessary arrangements. The campaign will not formally be opened until August 12, and then it is intended to have the largest mass-meeting at Lake Maranacook that ever took place in the State. By that time Congress will have adjourned, which enable some of the speaking talent in the country to be present. From that time out meetings will take place every day all over the State. The enthusiasm for the Republican standard bearers still continues, and the prospects daily grow brighter for one of Maine's old-fashioned majorities next September for the General J. Manchester Haynes, of this city, the newly appointed member of the Republican National Committee, leaves here to-night to attend the meeting of the committee in New-York on

For the past two weeks there have been a dozen or more persons visiting this city in search of material for a life of Mr. Blaine. It is to be doubted whether any of them has succeeded to his satisfaction in obtaining from Mr. Blaine sufficient information to be of any particular service, his time being so engrossed with other matters. A good many, therefore, in their disappointment, are driven to seek other sources for their material. As everything relating to Mr. Blaine is now of public interest, the following inci-dent may not be uninteresting, as it has never been published. Mr. Blaine first acquired reputation as a speaker in the Fremont campaign in 1856. He was a delegate to the first National Convention of the Republican party at Philadelphia, which put General Fremont in nomination for the Presidency. He was one of the secretaries of the convention. When he returned to this city, he was called upon at a ratification meeting to give a report of the doings of the convention, and then made the maiden speech of his At that time he had exhibited all the life. At that time he had exhibited all the qualifications of an orator, but had never ventured upon the public platform. He seemed to have a strong fear of addressing a public audience, and it was only after much persuasion that he consented, on this occasion, to speak. When he arose to his feet he was in such a state of perturbation and embarrassment that it was some time before he was able to command himself so as to begin to talk. From the moment he got possession of his voice he continued, and made one of the finest speeches he ever made in his life.

SENATOR EDMUNDS UNWAVERING.

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE TRIBUNE.]
WASHINGTON, June 22.—An intimate friend of Senator Edmunds yesterday said: "There is abso-Intely no foundation whatever for the rumors I occasionally hear to the effect that Senator Edmunds is hostile, or will give only a lukewarm and perfunctory support to the Republican ticket. No Republican in the land will support the ticket more faith fully or loyally than he; no one is more bitterly. opposed to the Democratic party or would more deeply regret its ascendancy. Any intination that he would for an instant countenance any movement that might have the effect of promoting the prospects of Democratic success is not only absurd and foolish, but it does him the most rank injustice, as I know from repeated conversations with him since the nomination of Blaine and Loran.

PREDICTING A LARGE MAJORITY. A STATE SENATOR THINKS BLAINE WILL HAVE 50,000 MAJORITY IN PENNSYLVANIA.

Philadelphia, June 22.—The Republicans of the Thirtieth Ward met last night to raise a Blatne and Logan banner and were addressed by State Senator B. F. Hughes, Representative Franklin Hall, Councilman Me-Cormick and Major Ryan, candidate for City Commis-Senator Hughes predicted the election of the Re-Franklin Hall was introduced as a man who had come back from Harrisburg a better Republican than he went. Hall emphatically denied this and asserted that he had always been a Republican. There were many practices of the party that he did not approve, but he believed of the party that he did not approve, but he believed that in Pennsylvania at least the hatchet had been buried and that the Independents generally would support the ticket. Major Ryan said that it was the radical men, men who made their mark in history, who never lacked for enemies, and for this reason blathe was assailed because he was the foremost statesman of the country. Logan, he believed, would receive the support of the solders. He said that Puck issued a cartoon when Blaine resigned from Arthur's Cabinet, representing him as leaving the White House with a satchel, marked: "I go, but I will return in '84."

In this office there are more than half a dozen employes who have not voted the Republican ticket since the nomination of Greeley, but they will stand by Blaine and Logan. PAYNE'S FRIENDS ENCOURAGED. ENDEAVORING TO MAKE A BARGAIN WITH MR. FLOWER'S SUPPORTERS.

[BT TELEGRAPH TO THE TRIBUNE.] CLEVELAND, Ohio, June 22 .- Notwithstanding Henry B. Payne's statement that he is not a candidate, the politicians here who advocate his nomination as the Democratic candidate are well pleased with the present condition of affairs, and they expect to turn the tide in favor of their candidate with the meeting of the Democratic Convention in Ohio next week. Representative Paige has been active for several days in trying to bring about a combination or alliance with the friends of Mr. Flower, by which the New-Yorker is to throw his strength for Payne and take the second place on the ticket himself. As yet the conditions have not been perfected, the Flower men being unwilling to admit that Payne has the most strength, but at the same time expressing a willingness to make an alliance offensive or defensive willingness to make an alliance offensive or defensive against the nomination of Cleveland. The Payne men say that a ticket composed of Payne and Flower would be exceptionally strong, and that there would be no trouble about the "Sinews of War" to carry or the campaign. It is asserted that the Onio convention will instruct for Payne, but this is doubedt by some of the Ohio men, who say that ex-Senator Thurman will have many friends in the convention and that they will be able to prevent any declaration in favor of Payne. The Fendleton men will also fight against such a proceeding. A strong sentiment has spring up in favor of pressing Martin A. Foran for Vice President, Mr. Paige is engineering this boom, and meets with great encouragement. The workingmen's organizations are enthusiastic for Foran and if he should be nominated will give him a big boom. It is understood that Pennsylvania and New-York are favorably disposed toward Foran would run better than Hoadly," said a Democrat. "He would have the support of the workingmen, and that is a powerful element in politics now-adays. The Cuyahoga delegation to the State Convention will endeavor to have Foran approved.

WHO ARE FAVORED IN MISSOURI, SEDALIA, Mo., June 22 .- The Democrat, of this city, publishes letters from seventy-five leading Democratic editors of Missouri, called forth by a request for their preferences for President. The opinions thus expressed probably represent the sentiments of the Demo crats of this State better than anything yet published, Nearly three-fourths of the writers favor the nomination Nearly ince-holds to want Bayard, while the others are scat-tering in their choice. All but two or three believe that Hilden's letter is a positive declination and that he is out of the race. One editor, however, declares himself for Hilden forever; dead or alive. For Vice-President, one-half favor McDonaid, while Hoadly, Paimer, Cleveland, Morrison, Slocum, Butler and Roscerans are all men-toned favorably.

WORKMAN UNDER FIFTY FEET OF EARTH-FRUIT LESS EFFORTS TO RECOVER THE BODY. IBY THLEGRAPH TO THE TRIBUNE.

CLEVELAND, June 22.—Frederick Belden was buried alive at Streetsbore, this county, last night. A well was being dug for Norman Peck, at his creamery, by Francis Drummond. The well had reached a depth of about seventy feet. Belden was at the bottom placing the wide walls. The men at the top received a signal from him to holst him up quickly, followed by another mere decided in its character. A quick pull was given at the opes, but the next second a roaring, rattling sound from below told that the well had enved in, burying Belden to the depth of nearly lifty feet. Within an bour a hundred farmers were at work but the danger was so great that hours were consumed in guarding against further encroachments of the sand, that seemed to ran like water. The first twenty-live feet of the well was dug through the clay, and as there was no danger from this a young man descended to the caved-in part to establish a start to begin throwing out the fallen dirt. From lifth it was learned that for an hour and shalf he could eath sounds and detect a movement of the rope that reached to the bottom. At last all sound and moston ceased, telling that human aid was no longer needed. All night the work went on. It accured to make little headway, as the loosened sand caved in as fast as the other was removed, and this morning several feet of sand yet remained to be removed before the dead man could be reached. Wilsey is a young man, well known along the Eric road as a switchman and a sport, being a heavy hitter, a good eard player, and noted as a flue pool player. He and his companions remained in Deposit all day, drinking and playing cards and pool. Toward night they became pretty drunk. About 11 o'clock Wilsey was sitting in the bar-room of the Oquaga House, when Allen McClure, about forty years of age, entered and dared any man to fight him. Wilsey kept still until McClure became emonstrative, when he remarked that he would like to the duter room was closed. He took the prisoner in charge, brought him to this city and looked him up. The coroner from this city has gone to beposit. #### twenty-one years of age. THE DANGER FROM NATURAL GAS.

INT TELEGRAPH TO THE TRIBUNE. PITTSBURG, June 22 .- A few weeks ago a hostler entered one of Carnegie Brothers' stables with a lighted candle in his hand. A terrific explosion followed. The man was blown thirty feet, a horse worth $1,300 was astantly killed, and the stable was completely wrecked. An investigation proved that it was an explosion of natural gas, which had escaped from a pipe a few feet away and had gradually forced its way through " made ground" until it entered the stable. Being invisible and odorless, the danger is doubled. So far no method of making known the presence of natural gas has been discovered. "What do think of the Democratic outlook?"

"Cleveland seems to be the choice for President, so far, but in my opinion he cannot be elected. His action in regard to the Five-Cent-Fare bill will hurt him with the laboring classes, while his veto of the Tenure-of-Office bill will cost him the support of all true reformers. The charff question will be the stumbling-block of the Democratic party; it would be better for them to leave it alone entirely than to adopt some plank in their platform which can be read from a dozen standpoints and nevertheless mean nothing."

BY TELEGRAPH TO THE TRIBUNE. Springfield, Ohio, June 22.-The marriage of Miss Etta Ross and Vincent Nowattry took place last evening. The ceremony was performed at the residence of Miss Minnie Courson by the Rev. D. W. Smith, of the First Eng-lish Lutheran Church. The couple were married six or eight years ago when both were young, and a quarrel caused a separation and a divorce. Since then Mr. Nowattry has taken a full course in the art school at Munich, and was graduated with high honors. Miss Ross has also become an elecutionist, and has studied for the stage. IBY TELEGRAPH TO THE TRIBUNE. Wheeling, June 22.-Last evening William H. Suddenly Sherb attempted to leave her, when she grabbed him by the coat tails, and tugging at the them, vowed she never would be parted from him. A large crowd collected and in desperation lie had his tormentor arrested. She was taken before a magistrate to whom she said that four years ago she was divorced from Charles Haymond, a jeweller, at Sherb's Instigation. She met the latter in January, 1891, when he was organist of the First Presbyterian Church. She fell in love with him. On March 24 of the same year, happening to be in the church alone with Sherb, the latter asked her to marry him. She hesitated at first, but after persuasions, consented, if he would get a divorce for her from her husband. They tried several plans to get evidence against Haymond, but failed. Sherb then aroused Haymond's jealousy by making him believe that a young "drummer," who often visited this city, was paying attentions to his wife and persuaded Haymond to shoot him. The latter followed the "drummer" to Bellaire and had an altercation with him, in which the "drummer" was dangerously shot. Haymond was arrested. After her divorce Sherb refused to marry her. She tried several times to leave him, but each time he followed her add brought her back. Sherb declares the whole story an attempt at blackmaft. PITTSBURG, June 22 .- The rumor that Capain J. J. Vandergrift, of the Standard Od Company, had made, or intended making, an assignment, is pronounced false by that gentleman himself. The rumor that he was embarrassed, he says, came about in this way:

"Recently during a squeeze, there were a number of operators who bought oil in New-York and then couldn't clear it. They came to me to help them out. I bele graphed at once to New-York and the Standard people, as a matter of accommodation for a few days, cleared the off and fided the boys over for that day. The men we had accommodated lifted the certificates, and then they went out, some that banks and some into other places. I think in all there must have been about 2,000,000 barrels that I had to indorse for.

"I was not interested to a cent's worth, and all the Student lost faroused its kindness to the mean they help bere was the interest on a large sum of moting for several days. These certainates going on the market with my indorsement, conting from the banks and being piaced on the market in hundles, as has recently been the case, has given rise to the rumor that I was selling heavy. There is not a bank in Pittsburg that is not perfectly satisfied to-day. No bank ever sold any of belonging to me. I have not a dollar in those certificates with my indorsement, for, as you can see, I was only acting as azent for the Standard here in a movement that was beneficial to a number of operators."
